Keep Your Business Connected

The more your business' success relies on having solid communications capabilities, the more you realize the need to protect against unforeseeable problems. Your data systems probably already have some form of backup in place – but that's not enough to keep your business connected to customers, partners, vendors and employees. You also need to ensure your phone system will be available if there's ever any service disruption or power outage.

With Inteligy's Voice Resilience™ solution, your phone system is backed by an industrial-strength, full-featured business phone system in a redundant data center environment. In the event of a failure of your main phone system, your calls can be automatically routed to backup telephones within seconds, requiring no user intervention.

Scalable. Dependable. Customizable.

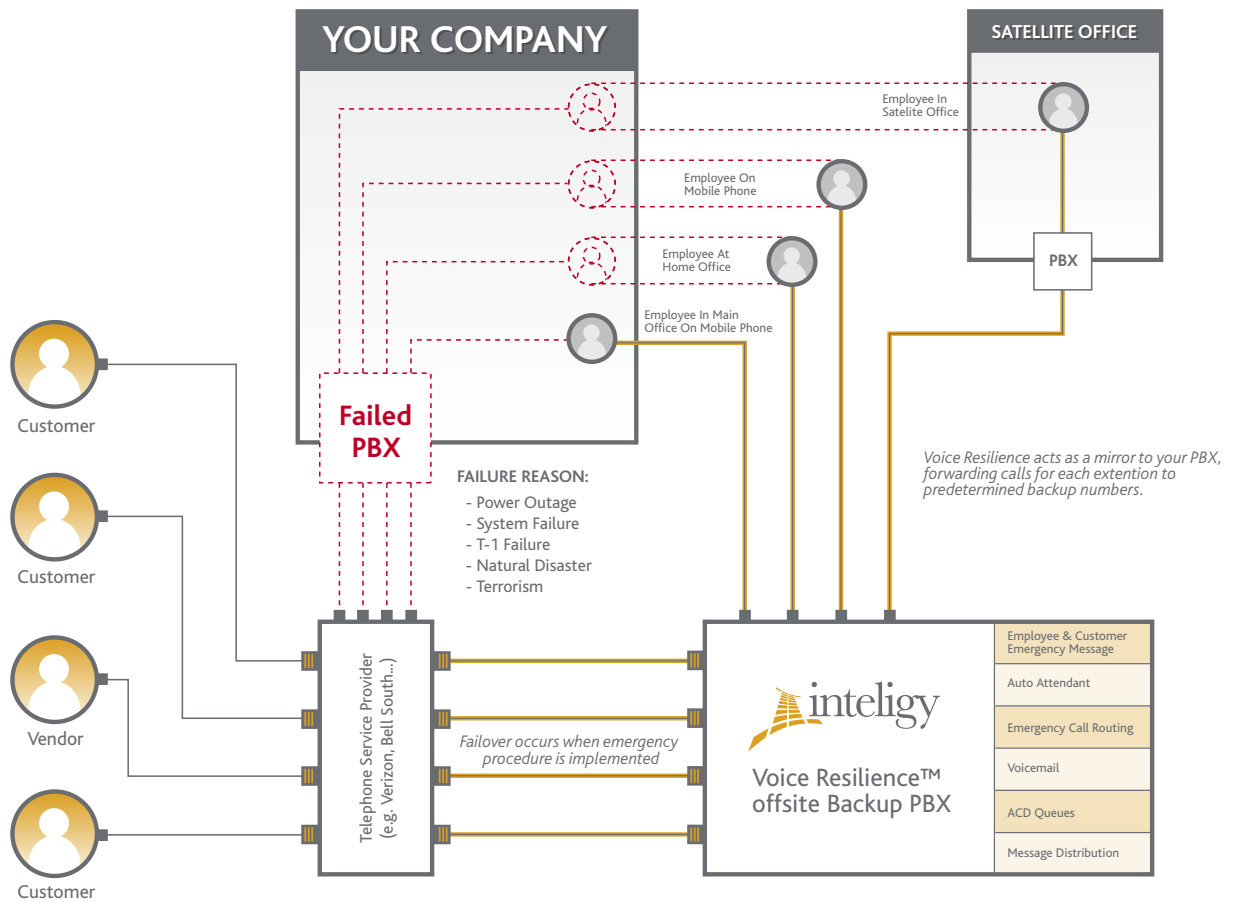

Inteligy's Voice Resilience™ solution is scalable to meet the needs of any size business, from home-based offices to distributed enterprises. It's also inexpensive and easy to use and implement – we simply make a mirror image of your existing phone system on our Voice Resilience™ Platform.

You can choose your backup phones to be cell phones, home phones or branch office phones in alternate locations. You can provide communications continuity for all your employees or just those in the most critical positions. You choose the course of action that works best for your particular business needs.

Invest in Some Peace of Mind

Voice Resilience™ gives you the reassurance that you can continue to do business as usual, regardless of the conditions around you. Even if your buildings are closed down, you can still receive calls. You can even route calls to the sites containing your computing disaster recovery equipment in order to integrate a comprehensive continuity solution for your entire business.

At a fraction of the cost of additional hardware systems, tie lines, and automated switch-over equipment, Voice Resilience™ lets you benefit from all the advanced features of a next-generation phone system, without the disadvantages of having to install and maintain a phone switch on site.
